

You don't have to verify what you were doing, Mrs. Moore.
Did anybody see Mr. King at your home on that day?

MOORE

I don't think so.

PETROCELLI

Do you still have the lamp? The lamp Mr. King so kindly bought for you?

MOORE

It broke.

PETROCELLI

Should I take that to mean you no longer have the lamp?

MOORE

They don't make things to last anymore. I think it was made in Korea or someplace like that.

PETROCELLI

Again, should I take that to mean that you no longer have the lamp?

MOORE

I don't have it now, but I did have it.

PETROCELLI

Yes, of course. Thank you. Nothing further.

CUT TO: GEORGE NIPPING on stand. He is about 50 and wears wire-rimmed glasses. He speaks precisely and generally makes a good impression.

BRIGGS

Mr. Nipping, do you know, as a matter of fact, if Mr. King is right-handed or left-handed?

NIPPING

He's left-handed. I know that because when he was a kid,
I went out and bought him a glove, a baseball glove, and I had to take it back because he was left-handed.

BRIGGS

Have you ever known him to do anything of significance with his right hand?

NIPPING

No, I've never seen him use his right hand for anything.

We see STEVE writing on a pad.
