

him testifies that he was with her. Big deal. Against all the evidence against him, it doesn't count for very much. His lawyer is going to rely on his closing argument to win the case, and I don't think that's going to be effective unless he's very, very lucky. Cases are won on closing arguments only on television, not in a real courtroom.

SINGLE MS: We see STEVE nodding, but he is looking down. We see O'BRIEN looking at him, studying him closely. She sits down and takes a deep breath.

O'BRIEN

(Puts a paper cup on the table.) Okay, Steve, now stay with me. We're going to play a little game. I'm going to take this cup and place it on the table. Then I'm going to ask you some questions. When I like the answers you give me, I'll leave the cup facing up. When I don't like the answers, I'll turn it upside down. You figure out what's wrong with the answer you gave me. All right?

STEVE

Why? (O'BRIEN doesn't answer. Then we see STEVE nod his assent.)

O'BRIEN

Did you know James King?

STEVE

No?

CUT TO: O'BRIEN turns the cup down.

STEVE

Yeah, casually.

CUT TO: O'BRIEN turns the cup up.

O'BRIEN

When was the last time you spoke to him before the robbery?

STEVE

Last summer?

CUT TO: O'BRIEN turns the cup down.

STEVE

I don't know for sure. I mean, he's not like a guy I talk with a lot.

CUT TO: O'BRIEN turns the cup up.

THEN: The camera moves farther and farther away from the pair. We see another prisoner and lawyer enter
